

Terms and conditions of posting a job vacancy

- All job vacancies must relate to molecular bioscience
- Employers wishing to advertise a job with the Biochemical Society should use official company email addresses. Jobs submitted via a general email addresses, such as Gmail or similar, will not be accepted
- Employers must have a valid company website
- Job vacancies where there is a fee involved for the candidate cannot be accepted
- The Biochemical Society will not advertise vacancies that require an application to include a photograph of the candidate
- Your job posting will be advertised on the Biochemical Society website until the vacancy deadline and may also be promoted through other channels including social media or the Society's Members' newsletter